ELKS' ANNUAL BALL WAS EVENT OF THE SEASON

DECORATIONS AT MINERS EXCHANGE HALL PROVED A REVELATION.

Under the soft glow of different colored electric lights, the members of Tonopah lodge 1662, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, entertained at the Miners Exchange hall last night at their third annual ball. That the affair was one of the most successful ever attempted in this city was manifested by the large crowd in evidence. To describe the dance without paying at least a brief tribute to the beautiful gowns as worn by the ladies, would be considered a slight, but what is one going to do, when one's knowledge of feminine finery is limited. It may be truthfully said that the handsome gowns would have done credit to a swell function in one of the metropolitan cities, but that is not sufficient to do the ladies credit. The creations—well, Roosevelt, who has been quite a court favorite of late, never had the pleasure of witnessing such creations in lingerie, as were beheld at this affair.

The interior of the hall proved a revelation to those who had not indulged in the pleasure of witnessing Captain Wise at work. The walls were hid with artistically placed strands of white crepe, while in between were placed thousands of cut roses. It was a novel effect and pleasing to the extreme. Lengthy garlands were strung and draped from the ceiling, while throughout the length of the hall were the incandescent globes, the only illuminations. The music stand was draped with a fish net and the profusion of roses nearly hid the musicians from view. The exquisite music seemed to emanate from nowhere in particular, and Professors Tatro and Ish were continually complimented for their efforts.

At each end of the hall, the walls were completely hidden by potted palms and huge canvass drops. At the north end there was a vision of Halley's comet soaring through the heavens. The comet was known as Jones aerolite. A huge clock, with the hands pointing to 11, stood at one side, and when that magic hour arrived, with dimmed lights, the customary toast to the absent brothers was given. Then joining hands the Elks sang "Auld Lang Syne." The chimes, slowly sounding the reverend hour, caused a deep hush over the assemblage, and the services made quite an impression.

Punch was served on the balcony which had been transformed into a flower garden. Numerous plants were scattered about and at one end a fountain was in operation.

The grand march was led by Past Exalted Ruler George B. Thatcher and Mrs. Thatcher, with fully 200 couples in line. This was shortly after 9 o'clock and the crowd had hardly commenced to arrive. Three auto loads containing Goldfield Elks and their ladies journeyed to this city and aided to make the evening a merry one.

Shortly after 12 o'clock the dancing stopped for supper, which was served at the Elks' hall. Here it may be remarked that the committee in charge were on the scene and had been for several days and the spread was served up to all expectations. Dancing was resumed and kept up until a late hour this morning. At the conclusion of the affair, the local Elks had again gathered additional laurels and their reputations as entertainers were kept intact.

SHIPMENT OF ORE WAS SHORT OF EXPECTATIONS

EXPECTED VALUATION OF $7,500 AMOUNTED ONLY TO $1,253.10.

A statement was presented to the district court yesterday showing the values received from the twenty-one tons of ore, recently released from attachment by an order of the court. It will be remembered that the ore reposed in the vaults of a local bank for some time, injunction proceedings having been started against the Manhattan Dexter Mining company, by the Manhattan Ore and Reduction company. At that time the ore was believed to run up in the thousands per ton. But yesterday the rude awakening came, when the report stated that the ore had returned a total sum of $1,253.10, or an average value of $62.02 to the ton.

In order to mill the ore the Dexter company was required to put up a bond of $7,500, but it is now understood that this bond will be reduced to a sum corresponding to the returns.

COOL AND COZY, THE BUTLER IS A POPULAR PLACE

ADDITIONAL ELECTRIC FANS BEING INSTALLED BY MANAGEMENT.

The crowd was out in force last night at the Butler theater and witnessed a very interesting program. The management has provided additional fans for the comfort of its patrons and they also wish to announce that they will install two more overhead electric fans which will make this popular place of amusement one of the coolest places in the state. Commencing at the matinee today there will be another entire change of pictures and songs. Four pictures and one illustrated song will be shown on the canvas. By request today Miss Feldman will sing that old familiar song, "The Last Rose of Summer," and the management assures all those attending that it will be a treat to hear her render this song. The pictures are: "Corsican's Revenge," drama; "Cumby's Sojourn in the Country," comedy; "Ouchard, the Merchant," a Pathe drama; and the greatest feature film ever shown, "The Hand of Uncle Sam." This picture will impress upon you just how good a nation we have. This program is on for today only.

The injury was causing her considerable pain and she evinced a desire that Mrs. Walter Agnew journey to San Francisco and visit her. In accordance with her wishes Mrs. Agnew will leave this morning.

SULPHUR SHOULD MAKE LARGE CITY

The Silver State says: The Good News Mining company, near Sulphur, will ship via the Western Pacific in a few days a number of sacks of their highgrade hornsilver ore. Some of this ore carries values exceeding $4,000 per ton. C. H. Reich, the general manager, writes the Silver State that they are now working in a rich vein of the white metal. A large number of leasers are now at work at the mines. As this mine and the famous Durango Girl, which adjoins, are only about two miles from the town of Sulphur, the will contribute not little to the population and business of the place. Also adjoining is the extensive works of the Nevada Sulphur company, employing a score of men and taking out and refining sulphur. A short distance to the northeast are the Jackson mountains, with their numerous gold, silver and copper mines. Seven miles to the southwest is the Rosebud district and near by on the east is Saw Tooth.

Aside from its chief attraction—the town of Sulphur has a splendid prospect for building up a prosperous city. It is also just the right distance from another large town (Winnemucca) to make stores and other business lines profitable.

The C. O. D. company, the operations of which were interrupted temporarily by a break down in their machinery, has started to work again sinking their well.

Every train adds to the population. Tents dot the land thickly which will soon be followed by more substantial structures. The people of Sulphur seem singularly free from the "Knocker" element, which will always insure success to any community.

The irregular train service and inadequate facilities for coming and going is the greatest handicap at present, but this will soon be cured by the railway officials, now that the weather is favorable for road ballasting and other betterments.

"The success of Sulphur is sure."
